

1997 - 2001

Select Research were the first company in the world to use 3D technology for large-scale body measurement in clothing, working with UK retailers

2002 - 2006

BVI software research and development begins to create a new health risk indicator

2007 - 2009

BVI trademarks granted, Medical Research Council and Mayo Clinic commit to long term contracts to validate and develop BVI as a health risk indicator and first clinical trials of BVI software commence. NHS trials find BVI to be a motivator for weight loss

2010 - 2013

Prototype of BVI software developed and tested, Patents granted

2014 - 2016

BVI found to be the preferred choice of body measurement by a majority of medical professionals in the UK NHS. Waist, Hip and Waist to Hip Ratio validated

CE Marking granted. H2020 grant funding secured for further R&D. BVI Pro released with Mayo Clinic. Body Volumes validated and BVI receives FDA approval.

2018 BVI technology chosen for UK Government sizing survey, contracted with 7 major retailers. World Health Organization pledges support for BVI deployment. DEXA validation commences

2017

BVI SDK released, Chinese trademark granted, global patent published for BVI number, retail patent published for body volume

比维爱

2019

Body Volume Index released in collaboration with WHO

2019

BVI used by WHO on international public health projects. BVI individual use app released for insurance markets. Visceral fat and total body fat validated

